EDUCATION FUNDING

IS VITAL FOR ARKANSAS'S FUTURE

WHERE DOES IT COME FROM?

Education funding comes from a mix of mostly property taxes, state funding, and federal dollars.

Education dollars go to pre-K, programs for low-income kids, teachers' salaries, and school facilities.

Poverty funding is allocated according to the number of low-income students in a district. These funds aren't always spent on proven and effective programs.

2013

Some school districts can afford expensive new buildings.

Others can barely afford to maintain the ones they have.

The state determines the funding a school needs to provide an adequate education. These funds are called foundation funding. They are calculated on a per student basis. About 2/3 of the funding is used for teacher salaries and benefits (at right). The funding comes primarily from two sources: property taxes that are required to be used for education, and from state general revenue.

WHERE IS IT NEEDED MOST?

To ensure good outcomes for low-income students, funding must be directed toward what works!

PRE-K

Only 10 percent of 3-year-olds in Arkansas are enrolled in pre-K through the state's ABC program or Head Start. That number is higher for 4-year-olds, but there is still a long waiting list. We need more funding to get these kids started off right!

AFTER-SCHOOL PROGRAMS

After-school opportunities keep children safe, help working families, and inspire kids to learn.

COORDINATED SCHOOL HEALTH

Arkansas needs funding for school healthrelated staffing and supplies to take care of our kids where they spend most of their time.
